Hello,

Do You know What to do if in an EMERGENCY?

////////////////////////////////////

Are you giving your pet all the available treatment options with Veterinary Secrets Revealed?

This has gotta be every pet owner's nightmare...

They are going for an enjoyable stroll while their dog frolics with his buddies at the dog walk.

Max races to beat Shorty for the ball... Max inhales the ball.

He gasps for air... while he's struggling to breath, you run over to him, then he drops...

What would YOU do??

////////////////////////////////////

I would think that your all thinking... Just reach inside his mouth and remove the ball.

SIMPLE.

Not So Easy.

First, it's difficult to get your hand deep to the back of the throat, especially in a small dog.

Second, I have seen many balls wedged so far back in the throat, that NOBODY can use their hand to remove them.

The clock is TICKING... YOU'VE got to act FAST.

So Now What...?

////////////////////////////////////

You could pick him up in Your arms, carry him to your car, and rush to the closest Vet.. But You need to go fast, for if you don't get there in 2 minutes, then its TOO LATE.

What would You do with a Choking Person... The Heimlich.

With a Dog: The Heimlich.

You Hold him upside down, with his head pointing down and his spine against you.

You give repeated sharp thrusts to the abdomen.

You lay him down and sweep the throat again for the ball.

You repeat this until the ball comes out.

I think that every pet owner should know basic CPR.

Read this testimonial:

"Dear Dr. Jones,

I have read your book and I am better prepared to handle an emergency with my Dog "Annie". I know how to do CPR on a dog and how to do the Heimlich Maneuver, etc. She is 7 and has arthritis in her left rear leg, probably in the knee. I am going to treat her now with your alternative treatment.

I can't tell you how much I appreciate having this reference book. I recommend it to every pet owner. It's a must have. Let me know if there is anything I can do to help you with your "problem" with the association. Thank you.

Alan Schulz, Northbrook, IL USA"
